

CAPE COD

Alutex Awning Systems. Everything else... is just shade.

Cape Cod can be identified among those retractable awnings generally labeled as "cassette awnings". Its main function is to offer extra protection to its fabric when completely retracted and provide extra winter storage during off-season.

In order to avoid discontinuity in its frame, Cape Cod's box element is created like a shell by sealing two halves to each other, a top and a bottom, up to a maximum continuous length of 23', while its 13' maximum arm projection is today the largest available on the market in its retractable awning category.
