MADERA GIANT

Beyond the limit

It has been Alutex's distinctive feature to offer year after year the most innovative and challenging solutions for the retractable awning market.

Giant is by its own name the largest lateral arm retractable awning today on the American market and with its 20' of possible projection it will probably remain as such for many years to come.

Designed to address the most demanding market for features beyond the limit, Giant wants to set the new frontier of the retractable shade limits. Although special structural requirements are a must for this outstanding product, its design is able to maintain the same elegance typical of the products made to last.
